STATEMENT: Alaskans are being served by a system that often focuses on short-term politics instead of long-term results. Too many decisions are made for the next election cycle rather than the next generation. I am not running to be part of that system. I am running to help change how it works. My focus is simple: build a 25-year plan that strengthens Alaska for future generations. That means lowering the cost of living, improving access to healthcare, supporting seniors, and ensuring our economy works for working families, small businesses, and future generations. Alaska faces unique challenges. High energy costs, limited infrastructure, workforce shortages, and access to services in rural communities require practical Alaska-focused solutions. We need leaders in Juneau who understand these challenges and are willing to work together to solve them. I believe we need leadership that brings people together, not pushes them apart.
This campaign is about representing all Alaskans—regardless of political party—and focusing on real solutions instead of political division. We must also prepare for the future. Artificial intelligence, automation, and changing industries will affect jobs, education, healthcare, and our economy. We need a long-term strategy to ensure our children and grandchildren are prepared for what lies ahead. This election is not just about today. It is about the next 25 years. I respectfully ask for your vote.
