Position Statement

It's time for change. Alaskan families deserve an economy that rewards their hard work, not one where corporate greed raises costs while they struggle.

Alaskans deserve affordable healthcare. No one should lose their home, or go into debt, because they were hospitalized. Medical debt is purchased by private equity; they buy medical practices, and fire those who built the practice through years of hard work. When elected, I will propose a bill to protect everyone from these vile practices.

Energy costs are rising daily. Fossil fuels are running out, damaging our fisheries and destroying the climate. We need to investigate and subsidize alternative energy sources (wind, solar and hydroelectric), while being cautious and ensuring they do not impact our fisheries, wildlife or forests.

Our public schools were failed by years of underfunding. Some of our children cannot read or write, class sizes are huge, schools are closing and infrastructure is crumbling. Public employees, including teachers and first-responders, need a livable wage and better retirement. I will fight to fully fund our public schools so every student is ready to succeed.

Private equity purchases hundreds of units for vacation rentals, causing hard-working families to pay exorbitant rents. I will fight for low-income housing in every new project, and limit private equity involvement.

Food prices rise during disasters but never go down; I will work to ensure prices return to normal after temporary cost spikes.

I will fight to ensure Alaskan families receive the maximum benefit from our natural resources.
