Position Statement

Food Security, Energy Affordability, Economic and Workforce Development, Accessible Healthcare, and Environmental Stewardship.

My family has been living in Alaska for thousands of years, and my greatest wish is to ensure that Alaska remains an ideal place to call home for thousands more. For me, this means being able to live from the land, free of poisons in our food, land, air, and water, and to maintain our abundant wildlife. It also means a vibrant economy with a wealth of opportunities.

Protecting our fisheries from out-of-state mega corporations that collect millions if not billions of pounds of by-catch while tearing up the sea-floor is a no-brainer for Alaskans seeking to protect our fish and our jobs.

Development of Alaska's energy opportunities is another critical step towards a thriving economy. No one in a state with this much energy potential should be struggling to heat their homes or fill their tanks.

Preventative Healthcare is affordable healthcare. Not only does properly taking care of our people save us money in the long run, it means we get to live happier and more productive lives.

Alaska's immense natural beauty defines our state. Proper stewardship is its own benefit. It staves off wildfires, keeps our wildlife healthy and abundant, and preserves our state for the generations to come.
